Introduction

NSW Environmental and Zoo Education Centres (EZECs) are proud custodians of traditional Country including significant sites across NSW and encompass the traditional lands of a broad diversity of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities.

We acknowledge Elders, past and present, and respect the continuing cultural authority and traditions and believe that we can all walk together to a better future.

EZECs recognise the rich contribution that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures make to the diversity of the Australian community. We are committed to advancing reconciliation and ensuring the First Peoples of this nation are valued. Furthermore, it is our responsibility as Australians to have a cultural understanding of Australia’s traditional heritage.

Our vision for reconciliation:

NSW Environmental and Zoo Education Centres’ (EZECs) vision for reconciliation is for all Australians, particularly young Australians to recognise, understand and be proud of the fact that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples as Australia’s First Peoples, have strong connection culturally, physically and spiritually to the lands’ and waters of our nation.

All Environmental and Zoo Education Centres develop and deliver sustainability and environmental education programs according to NSW syllabus for the Australian Curriculum. Our programs embed the key cross-curricular priority area of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander histories and cultures and we provide culturally appropriate and inclusive opportunities for students to understand that contemporary Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities are strong, resilient, rich and diverse. Environmental and Zoo Education Centres programs emphasise the relationships people have with place and their interconnection with the land, water and sky.

Environmental and Zoo Education Centres effectively integrate Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples’ use of the land, governed by a holistic, spiritually based connection to Country and Place, with the continuing influence of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples on Australian places. We also have a vision to be proactive about increasing the visibility of Aboriginal heritage in our local areas.

We build on students’ current understanding and knowledge of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander histories and cultures and encourage an appreciation of the reconciliation process in hand with a strong anti-discrimination policy.
Our Business:

There are 25 Environmental and Zoo Education sites in NSW. “Environmental Education Centre means a teaching and learning facility operated by the Department of Education which students attend to participate in educational programs relevant to all primary and secondary key learning areas and/or to receive specific instruction in field work, and which provides support to schools in implementing environmental education.”

2.18 NSW Teachers Award 2009

Environmental and Zoo Education Centres’ core business is to support NSW Public Schools to integrate sustainability education into all aspects of NSW school operations, curriculum, teaching and learning, physical surroundings and relationships with the local community. We provide authentic contexts for exploring, investigating and understanding values, concepts and systems in the natural and made environments. We equip students to design solutions to identified sustainability problems. We also:

- Provide high level instructional leadership to achieve more efficient management practices to support creative, innovative schools with positive learning cultures

- Support schools teaching the Board of Studies NSW syllabus through quality teaching, student-centred frameworks, quality professional learning and curriculum breadth and access for all students

- Ensure opportunity for all students to be highly engaged and interested in their learning in, about and for environmental sustainability

- Focus on the provision of authentic, meaningful and engaging curriculum opportunities to support literacy and numeracy achievement in our schools so that all students can reach their potential

- Create opportunities for all students to develop understanding of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander history and cultures.

- Ensure all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students experience successful learning

- Work more effectively as a network and in turn provide improved support to schools in sustainability education to meet the needs of NSW public schools, students and their communities

The Environmental and Zoo Education Centres Aboriginal Portfolio team is a group of interested and committed employees who work as one of 6 teams on a Leadership, Learning and Improvement Project funded by the Learning and leadership Directorate. We have worked towards ensuring that student engagement with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures in EZEC’s sits within the context of the Australian Curriculum, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander, cross curriculum priority. As part of this process it was decided that there was need for our own Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP)
We engage with schools, tertiary institutions, community, business and agencies to create new and significant learning for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students on an ongoing basis annually. Partnerships with universities are fluid, with various Environmental and Zoo Education Centres taking opportunities when possible to contribute to and access programs involving faculties and students. We do not have a permanent student enrolment, rather schools book in to our centres to access the full range of programs offered. Programs support the NSW school curricula in an integrated approach, but core content foci are the Sciences, Geography, History, English and Mathematics. Literacy, numeracy and technology are integrated into all areas and programs and in most environmental and zoo education centres, aspects of local Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander language are included in appropriate ways.

The state wide network offers programs from Kindergarten to Year Twelve in a context appropriate to both the NSW school curriculum, the local contexts and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander language groups within which each centre is placed geographically. Some centres cater for smaller geographical areas but large concentrations of population as in the coastal urban areas, whilst more remote centres cater for lesser student numbers, but vast geographical areas; to do this a number of the centres work collaboratively to provide outreach programs into rural and remote areas of the state of NSW.

Environmental and Zoo Education Centres partner with their local Aboriginal Education Consultative Group (AECG) in implementing Connecting to Country for focus schools; in many instances, this has led to greater understanding and collegiality with the local community and increased opportunities for programs and school visitation. Wherever possible we work with focus schools in implementing strategies for Aboriginal and Torres Strait islander students who visit and support and provide venues for organisations who support Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students, for example “The Aspiration Initiative”. We provide opportunities for all students to engage with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures within an appropriate local context and enable... opportunities for our staff to engage in professional learning for cultural awareness and teaching effectiveness from organisations such as “Eight Ways Aboriginal Pedagogy” from Western NSW, Ochre Opportunity Hubs, the Aboriginal Studies Association and “Dare to Lead” to inform and enrich culturally appropriate teaching practices.

Examples of focus areas and programs:

BREWONGLE Environmental Education Centre (EEC) (Western Sydney): HISTORY & CREATIVE ARTS Stages 2 – 3 VAS2.1, VAS3.1, VAS2.3, VAS2.4, VAS3.4: Students learn about Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, as the world’s oldest continuous cultures, ensuing contact and its impact. (There is emphasis on Aboriginal initiatives and responses to key government policies since earliest contact with British colonists). Students develop an awareness of the significant roles Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples have played in Australian society and the wider world. This will develop students’ capacity to participate in a just and equitable society including genuine reconciliation.

RIVERINA EEC (South West): iBook creation: Riverina EEC has announced the publication of their first multitouch book "Traditional Wiradjuri Culture". This book was built for Riverina EEC by Field of Mars EEC based on the Traditional Culture book published by REEC. This Multi-Touch book explores the culture and traditions of the Wiradjuri People. The book includes chapters on shelters, bush resources, tools, weapons and traditional art.

TARONGA ZOO EDUCATION CENTRE (Sydney Metropolitan): DREAMING AND LIVING ON THE LAND EARLY STAGE 1 – STAGE 1 GEE-1, GE1-1, GE1-2: Workshop Dreaming stories are an integral part of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures. Through native animal encounters, this workshop links the importance of animals and Dreaming stories to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and their cultures. Our Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander themed workshops have been created in partnership with local Aboriginal communities and at Taronga Zoo are delivered by an Aboriginal Education Officer.

CONNECTING TO COUNTRY STAGE 4- 5 GE4-1, GE4-3, GE4-4, GE4-5: Workshop The iconic location of Taronga Zoo has an enduring Aboriginal history and is a significant site for Traditional Owners, the Cammeraigal People from the North of Sydney Harbour. This fascinating workshop presentation incorporates history, culture and identity, and the importance of the land’s role in kinship, spirituality and everyday life.

WAMBANGALANG EEC (Western NSW): CULTURAL LANDSCAPES Stages 1- 3 EN2-1A, ST1-9ES, ST28ES, MA2- 17MG, HT1-2, EN1-1A: Students become aware of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures, practices and traditions. Aboriginal technologies are the focus of discussion as students learn how Aboriginal peoples obtained food, made shelters and canoes, and utilized natural objects as tools. Students gain an appreciation of the way in which Wiradjuri people around Wambangalang lived their unique lifestyle. The Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander themed activities provide students with an insight into how difficult it would be to hunt for food. Students focus on positive communication as they interact with each other and the environment.

Sustainability and Aboriginal Education: Eight Ways pedagogies are incorporated in to all Wambangalang EEC programs where appropriate. Organising Ideas: OI.2: Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities maintain a special connection to and responsibility for Country/Place throughout all of Australia. OI.2: All life forms, including human life, are connected through ecosystems on which they depend for their wellbeing and survival.

As part of the department of Education, Environmental and Zoo Education Centres endeavour to comply with the Department of Education Aboriginal Human Resource Development Plan 2012 - 2017 with targets as follow.
By 2017, our success will be measured by:

- 2.6% or higher representation of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples employed across all levels of EZEC
- Improved workforce capacity to drive and sustain Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employment
- Initiatives of the Plan and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employment targets embedded into local planning processes evidenced by workforce data
- Consultation, collaboration and engagement with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and communities underpins policy and program development and commitments
- Increased and sustained long term partnerships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities to improve local employment and education outcomes
- Continued monitoring and reporting of the outcomes of the Plan through the Department’s Annual Report to ensure progress, accountability and transparency.

There are 90 employees in the Environmental and Zoo Education network, 15 of whom are Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employees. Some of these positions are full time some part time, some casual. Other local community Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people and Regional Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employees from the Department of Education contribute to special cultural programs on a weekly, term or annual basis such as National Aboriginal and Islander Day of Commemoration (NAIDOC), National Reconciliation Week and Harmony Day.

Various environmental education centres have informal and individual arrangements for employing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples ranging from employment opportunities for local community members to the employment of National Parks and Wildlife Aboriginal Discovery Rangers.

Our RAP:

The Environmental and Zoo Education Centres (EZEC) already has involvement with NAIDOC Week celebrations and the delivery of programs culturally appropriate to their local settings and Language groups with involvement of local Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community members in programs where and when available. EZEC has also successfully facilitated several 8 Ways Aboriginal Pedagogy courses with Western Region Aboriginal Education consultants as presenters. EZEC centres vary in their employment policies and processes; Environmental Education Centres comply with Department of Education employment policies and process, whilst Zoo Education centres have the ability to employ Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander staff as part of their individual centre structures.

Our RAP working group is made up of the NSW EZEC Aboriginal Portfolio team, with one Aboriginal member and other staff including: Sue Saxby, Principal Wambangalang EEC; Natasha Mooney, Aboriginal Education officer Taronga Zoo, Sydney; Peter Nicoll, Principal Wooglemai EEC; Brad Crossman, teacher Gibberagong EEC; Mark Edwards, Principal Brewongle EEC; Michele McFarlane, Principal Red Hill EEC; Julie-Ann Sheridan, teacher Field of Mars EEC; and Ben Anderson, teacher Illawarra EEC.

Our RAP champion is Clarrie Hoskins, Aboriginal Culture & Language Advisor, at NSW Department of Education State Office.

It was Decided that the Environmental and Zoo Education network needed a Reconciliation Action Plan because whilst we are part of the NSW Department of Education, we hold a different brief to primary and secondary schools. Our business is to support NSW Public Schools to integrate sustainability education into all aspects of NSW school operations, curriculum, teaching and learning, physical surroundings and relationships with the local community. We believe that Environmental and Sustainability education in Australia (NSW) can and should be based soundly on the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander philosophy of caring for Country which they achieved successfully for millennia through natural resource management. Therefore it is important that we to adopt a strong custodial relationship with the Australian landscape and understand that our health is intimately linked to the health of Traditional Countries, our local places, Australia and the Earth.

As with the Australian Association of Environmental Education in their ‘Make the Change Framework’ we “advocate and support alignment and integration of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultural and heritage perspectives and knowledge as part of education and engagement for sustainability.”

During the development process, the RAP Working Group consulted with representatives from their Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities across the state. The Environmental and Zoo Education Centres’ Aboriginal RAP working group has also worked closely with Reconciliation Australia to develop our RAP. Whilst the Environmental and Zoo Education Centres network has a solid framework of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander initiatives and achievements to date, our RAP will publicly formalise our commitment to Australia’s First Peoples.

By working in partnership with Traditional Owners, other stakeholders and Reconciliation Australia, the plan aims to broaden our dedication across the network to share Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures with our students, teachers and staff. The development of this RAP has enabled us to analyse our existing commitments and look for new opportunities to support the three fundamental principles: Relationships, Respect and Opportunities.

EZECs do not have permanent student enrolments and based on EZEC location, each site has a varying relationship with the local Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities. Making connections with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and communities has some challenges that other schools with permanent enrolments may not experience (specifically that EZECs do not usually have long term connections with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander family members/ groups). This situation does not diminish EZEC’s vision for reconciliation however, but rather emphasizes the importance of making meaningful, lasting connections with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in general. EZEC will work with other Department of Education (DoE) staff such as Aboriginal Education Consultants, Engagement Officers, Aboriginal Community Liaison Officers, non-DoE staff such as NSW Aboriginal Education Consultative Group, Community Elders, Traditional landholders and students themselves to support closing the gap in educational disadvantage. EZEC will also particularly support schools with halving the gap in reading, writing and numeracy achievements for children by 2018 through our programs integrating literacy, numeracy and connection to Country, which provide students with outdoor learning experiences that facilitate improvements in literacy and numeracy for all students but particularly in a context that fits with Aboriginal students learning preferences.

It is critical that schools are places where Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students feel a sense of belonging.

Equality is one of the democratic values that underpin the NSW public school system. All students are equally entitled to the conditions that lead to successful experience and completion of schooling. For this to be achieved it is necessary to acknowledge that all students are unique, and that their differences must be taken into account when designing education programs. Our RAP provides a framework for taking up this challenge. The focus of our RAP will be the delivery of quality teaching and learning programs for all students with strong links to the Australian National Curriculum Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Cross Curriculum Priority, which acknowledges that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities are strong, rich and diverse, is intrinsically linked to living, learning
Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, deep knowledge traditions and a holistic world view.

The Australian National Curriculum Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Cross Curriculum Priority is a conceptual framework based on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples’ unique sense of Identity has been developed as a structural tool for the embedding of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander histories and cultures within the Australian curriculum. This sense of Identity is approached through the interconnected aspects of Country/Place, People and Culture. It provides opportunities for all learners to deepen their knowledge of Australia by engaging with the world’s oldest continuous living cultures.

The Environmental and Zoo Education Centres also adhere to the NSW Aboriginal Education and Training Policy, which makes commitments the lifelong learning aspects of Aboriginal Education, acknowledges the skills of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples. It commits to improve those lifelong learning pathways for all Aboriginal learners in partnership and consultation with the Aboriginal Education Consultative Groups, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities and organisations to build capacity within Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities.

Environmental and Zoo Education Centres will continue to engage and form links and partnerships with a broad range of Aboriginal and Torres Strait islander community groups such as local Elders, Local Land Councils, the NSW Aboriginal Education Consultative Group, and Education and Engagement Officers from Department of Education. We will do our best to include other key stakeholders in order to promote ongoing understanding of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures.

Reconciliation is important to the Environmental and Zoo Education Centres network to build national awareness and significance of traditional custodianship of the land. As part of our reconciliation journey, we have a responsibility to facilitate learning within the context of traditional and contemporary First Australian cultures as a foundation stone of contemporary Australian society by developing appropriate programs for schools and the broader community.
Relationships:

The environmental and zoo education centre networks believe building relationships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples is important because in Australia, as in the rest of the world, First Nations people have a spiritual connection to the land and seas which dates back thousands of years.

All students need to be educated about the injustices of the past and how they as the future generation can right the wrongs and work towards improving Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples’ present and future outcomes in life.

Creating awareness and celebrating the Aboriginal heritage of our respective places is bridging the gulf between Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and other Australians. This is about building and fostering relationships and working towards our vision for reconciliation.

Respect

Respect, recognition and support is an essential part of forming effective partnerships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and communities. Through our programs we equip students with education and knowledge about Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and communities, which nurtures empathy and responsibility.

EZEC respects Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Australians and encourages staff, students and society to embrace the principals of cultural inclusivity. We are particularly aware of the importance of cultural respect as EZECs work with students from a large geographic area of the country.

Through lessons and programs delivered, EZEC’s aim to build Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultural competencies and demonstrate the care that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples have had for their lands in all settings in order to build and maintain relationships and continually improve outcomes for all students. ## Opportunities
The operations, nature and location of NSW EZECs provide a unique context and opportunity to interact and connect with members of local Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, Department of Education (DoE) consultants, Aboriginal Education Consultative Group and Aboriginal Students. NSW EZECs will promote the appreciation of and learning about Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander history and cultures and where possible promote the employment of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander officers (2% DoE wide).
